The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Soo line have been practically boycotted by the transatlantic steamship lines. This has been caused by the actions of the two roads in cutting rates on through tickets for Europe, sold in the West.

Theodore Morass of Detroit stole a ride on the Michigan Central express. While the train was running at the rate of a mile a minute, passing a small village named Taylor, it ran into a pond of water which had overflowed the track.

The water flew up and hurled Morass off the train. He was picked up, but not seriously injured.

Mrs. Dorothy Ainsley, a middle-aged widow, living in Woodstock, died from apoplexy, brought on by over excitement. Edgar Ainsley, a son of the widow, and another young man had threatened to stab Ainsley with a knife.

Mrs. Ainsley heard the altercation, and tried to pacify the lads. At the conclusion of the row she suddenly fell to the ground and was carried into the house, where she died.

At Calgary, as Mounted Police Interpreter Charles Godin was riding to Langevinbridge, Pierre Ducharme, a half-breed, fired at him with a revolver, the shot entering the abdomen and passing out near the backbone. Godin immediately returned the fire, shooting Ducharme dead through the heart.

Godin then rode to the barracks and fell off his horse. Medical aid was summoned and a priest took the dying statement of Godin. No cause is assigned, except that Ducharme had been drinking heavily during the afternoon.

Now they're off!
One week—one's weak. Who?

Then, again, the weather will not be altogether to blame if some of the candidates find next Tuesday that they "don't cut any ice."

King Menier of Anticosti is beginning to find out that he is just an ordinary Frenchman and that his island is still British territory.

"Tupper, tyranny, and taxes," cries the Globe. "Laurier, Lunacy and Lies," retorts the Hamilton Spectator. These are just a few of the "amenities" of the campaign.

The Consolidated Railway Company of Victoria has been held responsible for the recent bridge disaster. Before the relatives of the victims are through with it, the company will realize that the responsibility is an exceedingly heavy one.

The news that British emigrants are preferring Canada for settlement indicates that at last the folks over 'ome are finding out that the wolves and bears and other disagreeable things are nearly all extinguished, and that the noble red man doesn't stand on the wharf at Montreal looking for cockney scalps. When these facts are generally believed in England the emigration will probably be even greater than at present.

Black Diamonds.

Although the greatest diamond mines in the world are in South Africa, Brazil exports more diamonds to that part than anywhere else on earth. The explanation is easy. They are black diamonds, and not the kind used as jewelry. The place of their greatest utility is underground in mines. South Africa does not produce them, but it could not well get along without them.

Black diamond is the hardest substance known. Its utility has only been realized for about twenty years, and improvements are constantly being made in it. The rough stones are taken and split by machinery in a way that was unknown until recently. The split must follow the grain. If it does not, half of the stone will be wasted. Each stone is split into cubes of different sizes. The cubes are then welded into mining drills if they are to be used for boring. The steel is not as hard as the diamond, but it does not get loose. In the same way nearly all diamond saws are made. They are circular saws. Every tooth is a black diamond cube. It is fastened on when the steel portion of the instrument is in a molten state.

The attempt to make these stones artificially has proved a failure in every instance. The cost is greater than the market price of the Brazilian diamond.

Black diamonds weigh ordinarily less than 100 karats, ranging all the way down to half a karat. The largest in existence was found only a short time ago, its weight being 320 karats. The diamond was sold to a museum for $40,000.

Lines on the Face.

When out in the sun the upper part of the face should be shielded from the light; if the sun shines full into the eyes they will naturally attempt to protect themselves from the strong effect of the light by involuntarily screwing themselves up, which quickly produces lines.

Bright and Economical Women

Make use of Diamond Dyes.

Bright and economical women find Diamond Dyes the greatest helps in housekeeping.

The thrifty housewife, with the aid of Diamond Dyes can re-color old and faded dresses, capes, jackets, pants, vests and coats, and make them look like new garments. In thousands of homes this work of renewing and re-creating by the aid of Diamond Dyes saves scores of dollars every year. The wonderful Diamond Dyes make such lovely and lasting colors that goods dyed with them cannot be told from new.

Success with Diamond Dyes is all ways certain and sure. The use of common adulterated dyes means destruction to your materials, and loss of temper and money.

Guard against substitutes: see that each package bears the name "Diamond."

TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM.

The pains of rheumatism are removed and the disease driven from the system by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, the conqueror of those ills of the severest cases.
Mrs. S. M. Monkman of Arkwright, Ont. writes:—I took inflammatory rheumatism. In February, 1894, and doctoring for it some weeks, but found I was getting worse. All my joints were swollen very much and I was not able to leave my bed, and could get neither sleep nor rest. Hearing from a neighbor that she got your Burdock Blood Bitters for her daughter, who had the same disease and it cured her, I purchased a bottle and after taking about the half of it I found myself recovering, and after continuing it for some time I recovered. But when the cold weather set in this winter I found it returning again. So I commenced to take the B. B. B. again when I found, after taking it about a week, that the red and swollen joints had disappeared, and I recovered that I am entirely cured.

Men and Women Drop Off Every Day From Heart Disease

Paine's Celery Compound Cures This Prevalent and Terrible Trouble.

Testimony of a Lady Who Suffered for Long Years.

Day after day the newspapers give accounts of very sudden deaths from heart disease. The trouble is a common and a prevalent one in this busy and rushing age, but too often lightly regarded by those who experience the symptoms daily.

Symptoms may be summed up as follows: the nervous system is usually out of condition; there are sharp pains in the heart; it is impossible to take a long and deep breath; the pulse is irregular; there is palpitation; very often a dry, irritable cough, and the sufferer is full of gloomy thoughts.

In order to cure heart disease, every one of the symptoms must be forever banished. The medicine to cure must possess the virtues and powers to strengthen the entire nervous system. Paine's Celery Compound is the only medicine that can build up and tone the nerves, and give to the life-stream—the blood—that purity and richness that guarantees freedom from all disease. Hundreds of physicians are prescribing Paine's Celery Compound every day for all forms of heart trouble, and their success is marvellous and encouraging.

Those who experience all the awful symptoms of heart disease, those who are brought to the verge of the grave by nervous debility, mental depression, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, liver and kidney affections, find in Paine's Celery Compound a true friend and life-giving agency.

Mrs. E. Rankin of Courtright, Ont., writes:

"With great pleasure I beg to inform you of the good I have received from the use of Paine's Celery Compound. For a number of years I have been in very poor health owing to various causes, and lately I was advised to try your medicine. I used three bottles, and have received a world of good. My severe headaches are completely banished, and the heart disease from which I suffered has disappeared, and altogether I am vastly improved. I am fully convinced that Paine's Celery Compound is all that it is recommended to be."

GENERAL BELLEVILLE NEWS

(From yesterday's 5 p.m. edition.)

HOLLOWAY STREET CHURCH.

At Holloway Street Methodist Church yesterday the pastor, Rev. C. H. Jones, occupied the pulpit both morning and evening and delivered two interesting and instructive sermons. "The true strength of a church" was the subject of his morning discourse and at the evening service he took as his subject "The true wealth of a people." The services were well attended.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

At St. Andrew's Church yesterday Rev. Dr. Smith of Queen's University, Kingston, occupied the pulpit in the morning, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Macdonald, occupied the pulpit in the evening. The subject of both the morning and the evening discourse was "The Prodigal Son." During the evening service the choir sang the anthem, "Seek ye the Lord," Miss Maggie Milne taking the solo.

AT THE TABERNACLE.

The pastor, Rev. E. Roberts, occupied the pulpit at the Tabernacle yesterday morning and preached from Acts x. 29, sermon, taking his text from the charge of the church for another year and of the duties of a pastor. In the evening Rev. Dr. Curran preached an eloquent sermon from the text contained in II. Peter i. 1, and spoke of the Divine authority and call of the ministry. All the services were well attended.

AT BRIDGE STREET CHURCH.

Rev. E. N. Baker, M.A., B.D., conducted the services at Bridge Street Methodist Church yesterday and delivered two excellent sermons. The subject of his morning discourse was "Acquaintance with God," and the subject of his evening sermon was "Sowing and Reaping." At the close of the evening service the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. There was a good attendance at all the services.

PRINTERS' UNION ORGANIZED.

The printers of the city, comprising twelve or thirteen members, met at the Foresters' hall on Saturday when Mr. J. W. Dower, district organizer of the International Typographical Union for Canada, was present and organized a local branch. The following officers were elected:

President—Robert Wilson.
Vice-President—F. W. Duckworth.
Financial and Recording Secretary—Wm. Black.
Treasurer—Geo. Thompson.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Jas. Davidson.

JOHN STREET CHURCH.

The pastor, Rev. T. J. Thompson, M.A., conducted the services at John Street Presbyterian Church yesterday. In the morning he continued his discourse on the "Ten Commandments" and spoke of the third commandment. The subject of his evening discourse was "Political Corruption." Both sermons were highly interesting and edifying. During the evening service a quartette to civilians, single tandem, and mixed double. The course will be half-mile, with turn, for the single and tandem contests, and for the mixed double quarter of a mile, straight away.

THE NOMINATIONS.
The nominations for members of the House of Commons for West Hastings will be held in the opera house tomorrow from 12 to 2 p.m. Both candidates will be present and will address the electors, the speaking to commence at 2:30 sharp. In addition to the candidates, two from each side will also speak.

CASE OF MISPLACED CONFIDENCE.

Last week Mr. Daniel Grass, Willam street, hired a respectable looking stranger to do odd jobs around his house, and he performed his work faithfully for a few days, and was accorded the fullest confidence of his employer. This morning, however, the man decamped suddenly and with him disappeared a number of articles, including a rubber coat, fishing tackle, etc. It is said he attempted to break into the house of Mr. B. E. Dickson, on the same street, at an early hour this morning, but did not succeed. The man has not as yet been located.

THE LAST REVISION.

The revised list of stations arranged by the committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference, as arranged in THE SUN, was afterwards subjected to a further revision when the following changes were made:

Tamworth district—Plevna, Rev. E. Farnsworth.

A VISITOR'S COMPLAINT.

"Are you not delighted with this city?" said an enthusiastic resident to a lady visitor the other day.

"Certainly the city is a beautiful place, but one fault has struck me, as a stranger—the impertinence of many of the young men who stand about shop doors in groups, on the principal streets, having nothing to do, seemingly, but make remarks loud enough to reach the ear of the young woman alone upon a shopping tour."

"Do you mean at night?"

"Oh, no, I should be sorry for the young woman compelled to go about alone at night."

"Who are they? have you noticed any?"

"Yes, they are the 'insiders' of the city."

GREEN FORAGE CROPS.

Planting Them is a Good Way of Clearing the Land of Weeds.

There are crops that can be grown to take the place of pasture grass and at the same time serve to clear the ground of weeds. It is not to be expected, however, where the land is so much wanted to produce two or more crops a year, that it will be so unadvised for that would be a way of growing a large amount of green food and feeding at the same time while the pasture is being cleared. It is important to keep the grass growing in the cow's mouth provided for, and with green food, as they will not starve during the summer if compelled to subsist on hay, fodder and grain.

Green and succulent foods are essential to the health of the animals, promoting digestion, preventing bowel diseases and increasing the flow of milk as well as protecting against the heat of summer.

For cows the broadcasting of oats and peas, to be moved as wanted, and fed to the cows in the barnyard, will provide an excellent substitute for pasture grass, such food being assisted by hay and grain. It will permit of resting the pasture.

Later in the season Hungarian grass may be sown on the same land. As it is a quick-growing crop, providing a cutting every four or five weeks and of a superior quality for hay, it will be readily progressed.

Side green food that is wanted daily and it will continue to produce green food until it goes to seed or is overtaken by frost.

This mode of feeding is styled "seeding" and applies to the practice of growing green food and carrying it to the stock instead of turning the stock on the green food. It also gives a larger amount of food, as a crop comes up after the space just cut, thus keeping up a continued supply, while the manure saved in the barnyard is an additional item.

Labor, however, must not be overlooked, as more attention to stock will be necessary, but the land will provide for twice as many cattle as the same area in pasture.

Where crops are out frequently the weeds are also mowed down at the same time, being thus destroyed, and, aside from this, any thickly grown crop that makes rapid growth crowds the weeds out. If a piece of land can be cleared of weeds in this manner it will pay for the labor of sowing the stock.—Philadelphia Record.

USE OF THE SENSES.

Habit and Experience Play a Part in Seeing and Hearing.

If we ask ourselves just how it is that we see, hear and receive impressions from the senses, we shall soon discover two things. The first is that the explanation "we see with our eyes," "we hear with our ears," etc., is not quite satisfactory. It is easy enough to explain how certain rays of light impinge on the retina of the eye and certain waves of air on the drum of the ear, but how these purely physical things are converted into purely psychological things of sight and hearing no one can explain.

Our second discovery will be that it is not by the eye alone that we see, or by the ear alone that we hear. Memory, or, rather, experience of habit, plays a great part in all sensations, though we do not often notice it, unless our attention is drawn to the fact by some circumstance that calls for a change at fault.

A BIRD'S QUEER DEATH.

Impaled on a Weather Vane. It Swings With the Wind.

One of the strangest monuments in existence is situated near Cold Spring, N. Y. It is slowly disappearing and in a short time will have entirely vanished, but it tells a marvellously true tale of the life and death of the being which caused it to be erected.

It is composed of the bones of a swallow which met its death on the weather vane of a barn while in full flight. Every one has noticed the peculiar diving motion which swallows make while on the wing. It was this method of flying that caused the bird's death. In making its quick dive it evidently miscalculated, or else did not see the vane, which was arrow-shaped, pointing directly toward the swallow.

The farmer who owned the barn noticed a bird perched on his weather vane. The vane was swinging in the wind, but did not trouble the bird, which apparently refused to be unsettled. The next day the bird was still there, and the day after as well. The farmer determined to investigate. He found the bird impaled on the vane. He left it where it was and it swung there for months. Why it did not fall to the ground seemed a mystery, until when only the skeleton remained it was found that the sharp point of the vane had penetrated the breast bone, and the bones drained apart one by one.

NOVELTIES IN LINGERIE.

The Chemise Back Again in Fashionable Favor.

There are few things more fascinating to woman-kind in general than the lingerie counters in the big shops. No matter how economical have been her other purchases, it is here she is sure to part with her last cent, and suitably at that, so tempting is the array of the dainty undergarments, with their cloud-like folds of sheer nainsook and lawn, their soft jabots of fine lace and narrow, fluttering ribbons. All the summer novelties are now displayed for her inspection.

The chemise, that most graceful of all garments, is back again in fashionable favor. For the last ten years or so the corset cover has had things all its own way. Now it is forced to divide honors with the old-time chemise. The short-waisted Empire chemise, with its little puffed sleeves, so dear to the heart of Josephine, is one of the most popular models for summer wear. It may have the neck cut round or V shape, and it is trimmed with lace and beading, run with narrow ribbons.

The Marie Antoinette chemise is another of the new designs. It has deep shoulder ruffles of lace or sheer embroidery which wander over the corsage, narrowing as they near the waist line. All the newest chemises are tucked at the back and made with a ribbon drawstring, so that they may fit to the figure. Both the yoke of the chemise and the armholes are run with narrow wash ribbons, which tie in pert little bows.

There are many materials used for the fashionable woman's lingerie. Not only is softer or prettier than nainsook, but batiste, India lawn, fine cambric and China silk are much worn.

The very long chemise, measuring from the tip of the shoulder to the bottom of the hem 52 inches, is a most convenient little garment to own. It may be used as a combination corset cover and undershirt. When it is designed for this purpose the bottom of the chemise is billowy with ruffles. A pretty idea is to have each ruffle headed with lace or embroidery beading.

The petticoats fashioned to be worn with thin muslin gowns are dreams of beauty. They are made of nainsook, India lawn batiste or dotted swiss, and are a bewildering mass of ruffles and lace. The skirts all fit snugly around the hips and have their greatest width in the 25-inch deep ruffle. Beneath this ruffle, which is always lace flounced, is another 12-inch ruffle, and then again, attached to the skirt proper, a 4-inch dust ruffle. The ruffles give to the skirt the fluffy effect so much desired.

A GIRL'S WRAPPER.

Well Liked for Its Simplicity of Cut.

A wrapper is shown here for little girls, and is much liked for the simplicity of cut and the ease with which it may be made at home, there being only shoulder and under-arm seams. The sleeve is the stylish bishop shape and has but one seam.

Flannelette of pink with a white hair line, had a collar of white China silk. Wrappers of washable fabrics are made of heavier cottons such as duck, chevot, etc. The collar may be left off for night dresses if desired.

If muslin night dresses are made the collar may be of batiste, lawn or other thin fabric. A dainty finish is a narrow ruffle set on with an open work veiling between ruffle and collar. This is put on by making very narrow French or bag seams. These are stitched with the seam on the right side of garment, then turned over and stitched again hiding the original seam.

This pattern is cut in sizes for girls of 2 to 6 years. A medium size requires 2½ yards of 36-inch goods.

Frills and Furbelows.

A new leather called elephant's hide is now shown. It is very peculiar, being a sort of yellowish russet, and is very rough in texture.

The old fashioned reticule is returning to favor. It is made of the same silk as the gown, and is fastened to the belt by long ribbons. It is made large enough to carry the handkerchief and a small purse.

Jewelry was never more exquisite than now. Turquoise and garnets and blue, white, yellow, pink and green enamel are used in many silver articles with dainty effect. Sleeve buttons and studs of silver have an enameled square or circle of white enamel, with a tiny colored flower.

The newest leather goods show two extremes of color—light brown and dark green. There is a perfect rage for leather, and it is made up into purses, card cases and articles for the writing table. Pocketbooks are very elaborate and are made almost square. Some of them have a tiny opening in the cover into which a watch can be slipped.

Keeping the Hair.

The hair should not be combed regularly with a fine comb. One with coarse teeth is much better, but even this should be sparingly used, and the brush more depended on for freeing the hair from tangles than is the rule. A fine comb will not only tear out hair unnecessarily, but also may injure the scalp. The hair should never be fastened up very tightly at night, the more loosely it is plaited the better. There need be no strain at all on the roots during sleep.

A Face Preparation.

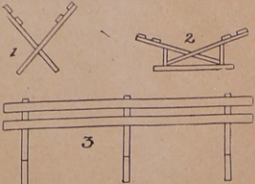

To aid making of the face the following preparation is useful: Dissolve one-half teaspoonful of pulverized alum in one tablespoonful of rose water, beaten with the whites of two eggs.

AGRICULTURE

CONVENIENT HAY-RACK.

Used for Years With Entire Success by Its Designer.

I have often wanted to haul hay, and being a lone-handed farmer and not desiring to take the bed off my wagon and put on regular frames, I invented the hay-rack here illustrated, and have used it for years with success and satisfaction to myself and others; and for hauling shingles I never saw anything equal it. It is made by using 6 pieces, 2x4 inches, 3 feet long, with ½-inch bolt 20 inches from lower end. (Fig. 1). Fig. 2 shows the frame in position on the end of the bed; raised marks show ends of parallel strips 124 or 130 inches. Fig. 3 shows one side of the frame when taken apart. For the ends I use a strip of plank or stud, 6 feet long, laid on end, and a floor of bed, projecting in rear end back and in front of inside cleats on the bed before putting the long parallel strips on, an keep end-gate rods tight. On the center cross I put a 1-foot cleat tight against the outside of bed and on the underside of cross. This keeps the center of the bed from spreading; but all good wagon-beds have two outside braces, and ought not to spread, anyway. However, this simple preventive makes it doubly secure.

Last, but not least, by any means, this frame folds up just like a pair of scissors, and can be hung up in a shed or against a building, and takes no space to house it. If farmers would only learn to take care of their utensils, there would be less mortgaging done than there is at present.

I never lift my wagon-bed off and throw it on the ground to lie for weeks in the rain and snow, and I never saw men work harder than I have seen them do while lifting the bed off and on the wagon, and split the tongue and groove in the bed floor.—E. J. Newkirk, in Farm and Fireside.

HE TALKED BACK

Mr. W. C. Hay, the well-known furniture dealer, called to our representative the other day. He said: "I had a dull pain in the small of my back, and suffered from kidney trouble for more than a year. I often had severe neuralgic pains in my temple, was always tired and never rested well."

I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and went to Templeton's drug store and got a box. They acted like magic with me. I commenced to improve at once. They removed all that pain and dizzy feeling and I now sleep better and am rested when I get up. I was also cured of all the urinary troubles from which I suffered so long, and I can speak highly of them. I heartily recommend them as a grand remedy for kidney troubles.

Other people talk back too. Miss Katherine Wood says: "I have had a pain in my back, accompanied by general debility and tried various remedies for same but without deriving much benefit until I took Doan's Kidney Pills, which I am glad to say entirely cured me. They are certainly a grand medicine and I can say in my case proved to be a thorough specific."

Store Methods

Count for a great deal with us. There is nothing so trivial with us in a business way, if it's honest, that doesn't have our watchful attention.

Every customer has some particular hobby—some little preference. Perhaps it's in the tea they drink or in the sugar they buy or in the soap they use.

We get to know that preference and if the merest child is sent here to shop and child-like, perhaps has forgotten the brand of soap, or the grade of sugar or the amount of bacon her mother sent her for—our knowledge of that mother's wants overcomes the difficulty.

LOUIS BENMORE, The Grocer.

The Small Investment

which protection against fire in a reliable fire insurance company costs you is a mere bagatelle whether a conflagration devastates your property or not.

If you are insured and you get "burned out," you are recompensed for your loss. If you are insured and you are not burned out it's worth the satisfaction you feel.

Fire insurance lessons are taught us every day—people will "take chances."

If you are bound to "take chances"—take it the other way—take it in a fire insurance policy and let us write it out for you.

Logic

A carpet, in itself, is a valuable adjunct to the comfortable furnishing of a room.

The addition of 8c a yard on a carpet makes some difference in the quality, but not much. The extra 8c per yard spent in our Patent Folded Paper Carpet Lining makes a wonderful difference to any carpet.

In other words, a 75c carpet laid over our Carpet Lining gives a better effect, cleaner job and more lasting results than an 85c carpet laid on any other make of carpet lining.

The "SPRING" of our carpet lining prevents the nap of the carpet from being flattened out, while the open folds of the lining catches and retains the dust that sifts through.

In this way your carpet retains its brightness, freshness, softness—lasts longer and saves the price of the Patent Folded Paper Carpet Lining in a year's wear.
